

Connie Doyle Beats Gordon--Bankers Play in Richmond Today

CONNIE DOYLE CAPTURES TITLE

Lands Championship in Fall Tennis Tourney at Columbia Country Club.

SCORES IN STRAIGHT SETS

Star Player to Clash Again Next Week in Annual District Championship at Bachelors' Club.

"Connie" B. Doyle won the title yesterday afternoon in the second annual fall tennis tournament of the Columbia Country Club when he defeated Spencer Gordon, of Chevy Chase, in the finals in three straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, and 6-4. Doyle received a handsome trophy from the club.

Gordon, who is District champion, deserves credit for his showing against the champion, although the heavy courts added to his ability to keep the balls down, and thus the low bounding handspiced Doyle in his smashing drives. Doyle's consistent chopping strokes and wonderful reach gave him the victory, while Gordon played his usual steady game. The match was marked by long rallies. Gordon will have another chance to meet Doyle next week in the annual District championship tourney at the Bachelors' Club in Woodley Park, and will undoubtedly lose his title.

"Connie" also came out on top in the semi-finals of the men's doubles when he and Paul J. Treanor took the measure of Spencer Gordon, and J. U. Moorhead, the scores being 6-2, 6-4, and 6-2. The winners displayed splendid team work. Treanor negotiated some beautiful return shots, while "Connie's" speed was largely responsible for the victory. Moorhead showed up well at the net.

Paul Treanor, the youngest player in the tourney, who has shown wonderful improvement this summer, finally lost to C. T. Chapman in the third round of the consolation, by 6-4 and 6-4. In the upper nearly every game was decided.

NAPS MAY GET FLAG IN 1914

With Players Already Listed and Promising Recruits, Hopes Run High.

NEXT YEAR THE SLOGAN

Steve O'Neill Ranks Among Best Receivers in Circuit—Birmingham Has Brilliant Hurling Staff.

By HENRY F. EDWARDS.
"Next year." What fond hopes have been built around "next year," particularly in Cleveland, where the Median, "manana," has been changed to "next year." Back in the first decade of the present century we Clevelanders got into the habit of predicting a pennant winner for the city—"next year." This broke out in a virulent form during the winter of 1906-07. Had not the Naps finished but half a game behind the Tigers in 1907? Had not Cy Young been added to the pitching staff? Was he not the one man needed to bring a pennant winner to the Sixth City?

But "Pride cometh before a fall." The 1908 team proved a grievous disappointment. Disgusted with his career as manager, Napoleon Lajoie resigned as manager. McGuire and Harry Davis proved no more successful. But with the advent of Joe Birmingham as leader came a new epoch in baseball in Cleveland.

Surprised Fans.

Labeled by all the "experts" as a second division team, one that would be battling with St. Louis and Detroit for the tail-end prize, even New York being listed as a better club, the Naps became the American League's greatest contender for the championship. Outdistancing Chicago, Boston and New York as well as St. Louis and Detroit, Cleveland developed unexpected strength and has been a most dangerous rival of Philadelphia all year. There were accidents, of course; there were mistakes as well; surprises made serious blunders; but this is not intended to be an alibi.

In fact, we are leading up to "next year," when the goal, likely to be missed by inches this year, may be attained after many years of strenuous endeavor. Without building any pretentious air castles, it can be asserted that the Naps' chances of winning in 1914 are much better than they were a year ago. We did not know that Steve O'Neill was going to become one of the foremost pitchers in the land. We did not know that Chapman and Johnston would make good as big leaguers. We did not have the hunch that Steve O'Neill was going to rank among the best five catchers in the circuit and lead his rivals at the bat.

Good Pitching Staff.

The 1914 campaign will start off with Birmingham directing a seasoned pitching staff composed of Grege, Mitchell, Cuddeback, and James, left handers; Falkenberg, Blanning, Steen, and possibly Burman, or Hovick, right handers. The left handers compose the best quartet of southpaws in the country. Mitchell and Grege are stars, while James and Cuddeback have displayed the stuff that may land them in the same class during the next season.

Blanning has shown improvement over his 1912 form and there really seems to be no reason to expect that he will go back next year. On the other hand, Mitchell developed even greater ability. Falkenberg shows no signs of going back physically. He should repeat. Bill Steen has shown sufficient this year to cause him to be rated among the best hurlers of the circuit in 1914. Then, at least one other good right-hander may be picked up from among the recruits. Cleveland can well be proud of its

BANKERS PLAY GRAYS IN RICHMOND TODAY

The Bankers, amateur champions of the District, will meet the Richmond Grays in Richmond this afternoon in a double-header, and, as the series now stands a tie, with each club having won a game, the contests are sure to be hard fought.

Chris Felino and Frank Hefeker are the pitchers selected by Manager Mike Macdonald for duty, and these lads should be able to trim the Richmond title holders.

The team will leave this morning, and will return tomorrow afternoon.

Infeld—Johnston, Olson, Lajoie, Chapman, and Turner are fixtures. Lajoie declares he will hold his own for at least three years more, while Turner, now enjoying one of the best years of his career, says he will, barring accidents, be good for several more campaigns. Chapman has shown consistent improvement, and has overcome to a large extent his tendency to blunder. There may be better batting first baseman than Doc Johnston, but he fits into the Nap machine nicely. The outfield can stand some improvement, but, judging from the reports of the six scouts President Somers has had upon the road, Cleveland is likely to start the 1914 campaign with the same set of gardeners—Graney in left, Leibold in center, and Jackson in right. Graney probably is as good as he ever will be, but Leibold should develop into a much more valuable man. He looked very bad at the start of his career as a Nap, but, acquiring confidence, he became a fairly good batter and a fielder of more than ordinary ability. He has been unfortunate, however, in having made his errors in very close games, where they stood out with undue prominence. If I remember right, he has made four or five foolish, each of which resulted in a defeat.

TEN MEN HITTING OVER .300 MARK

Watson, of Episcopal Club, Tops Batting List in Falls Church Sunday School League.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Falls Church, Va., Sept. 19.—Encouraged by the success of the Sunday School League the past season, managers of the five teams in the circuit and the players now contemplating leaving the schedule for 1914, but have the games played in a shorter number of weeks.

Single to Trojans.

The Trojan A. C. trimmed the strong Oxon Hill team in an interesting game by the score of 14 to 11. The features of the game were the fine pitching of E. Welch, who relieved Hanna in the first inning, and the batting of "Butch" Watson, who connected for a homer, a triple, and a double. Score:
